The assessment for the fifteenth and tenth raised in 1334 was used as the basis for collections until 1625. In 1433 a national reduction of £4000 was allowed to take account of changed circumstances, increased to £6000, in 1446. Commissioners in each county determined how the reduction was to be applied. Initially the reduction allowed to individual places varied at each collection, but in most counties it became a fixed reduction from 1487.
